FRENCH LAND ON ELBA, OFF ITALIAN COAST

Small Isle Seized as 5th and 8th Armies Continue Advance North.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 17—French forces landed today on the island of Elba, best known as the place of exile for Napoleon but valuable to the Allies because of its proximity to already occupied Corsica.

A special Allied communique said tersely that a "detachment of the French army 'B' which was commanded by Gen. De Lattre De Tassigny, at the direction of the supreme Allied commander, landed successfully on the island of Elba."

The regular communique disclosed that the Allied armies in Italy were continuing their rapid strides, with the Eighth army sweeping on to Foligno, about 27 airline miles north of Terni, whose capture was announced only yesterday.

Spoleto and Trevi, both on highway 3 on the way to Foligno, fell to the Eighth army.

Partisans Hold Town

In the Adriatic sector other units of the Eighth army made contact with partisan forces who already were in possession of Isernio, about 15 miles from the east coast and 30 miles northwest of Pescara.

On the west coast American troops have captured Grosseto, nearly 100 airline miles from Rome and on the mainland opposite Elba. Other forces pushed 12 miles north of Orvieto.

Sixty-five to 75 miles up the peninsula from Grosseto is Pisa, the west anchor of the Pisa-Florence-Rimini line at which the Germans may take a stand against the Allied armies, the naval base of Livorno, and the city of Florence. Grosseto, with its airport facilities, is expected to be of immediate value for air attack on German prepared positions in the northern Apennines whose foothills come down to these cities.

(A German broadcast said landings on Elba were made at both the southern and northern end of the island, with one just west of Portoferraio, the island's major city. The broadcast said "fighting is still going on," with a "small German garrison" defending the island.)

Off Coast of Italy

Elba is just off the west coast of Italy, seven miles from Piombino, nearest mainland point. It is about 19 miles long, 6½ miles wide and has an area of 140 square miles. It is part of a sunken mountain range extending towards Corsica and Sardinia, with the highest elevation Monte Capanne, 3,340 feet.

Baboon Runs Riot In Erie Car Near Hornell

By The Associated Press

HORNELL, N. Y., June 17—A baboon ran riot through a baggage car of the Erie railroad's Pacific express for two and a half hours today, causing several hundred dollars worth of damage.

The animal escaped as he was being given a drink while the train passed through Owego. B. O. Jones, railway express messenger, said the baboon damaged several crates of yeast cakes, potato chips and eggs. He ate generously from the crates while Jones took refuge in a corner of the car.

After the train reached Hornell, 100 miles from Owego, two expressmen distracted the baboon's attention by giving him a banana. They seized him and returned him to his crate.

The animal, about three feet tall on his four legs, is headed for Beloit, Wis.

RAF BOMBS ROBOT BASES

Pilotless Planes Continue Attack; One Kills Several in Nurses' Home.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 17—Germany's new explosive robot planes, dispatched across the English channel in weather that sharply reduced allied air activity, struck blindly in parts of southern England in intermittent attacks through the night an morning hours today.

Several persons were killed and a number injured when one of the fire-spitting projectiles made a direct hit on a nurses home at a hospital. Rescuers said they thought a number of persons were buried.

Another wrecked a shop, trapping four people for six hours in the cellar. Firemen had to fight flames before rescue squads could start digging, and when the four were released water in the cellar almost reached their necks.

Robot Bases Bombed

During the night British planes, following in the path of American heavy bombers late yesterday, struck the Pas-De-Calais coast—the region from which the robots are believed launched.

Fast German night-bombers rumbled through the English skies, ducking in and out of the clouds and dropping flares in apparent attempt to confuse British defenses, but rockets from ack-ack batteries plunged steadily upward, and a number of the pilotless craft were reported crashed.

Putting caution before curiosity, people of southern England flocked into bomb shelters, most of which were jammed throughout the night.

Even as Hitler was sending over scores of the small unmanned craft, American flying Fortresses and Liberators late yesterday were pounding military installations in the Pas-De-Calais area, generally believed to be the robot launching grounds.

RAF Spitfire pilots, with the same daring that brought them fame in the 1940-41 battle of Britain, were diving through terrific fire from their own ack-ack guns in bids to destroy these new German buzz-bombs.

YANK FORCES HEAD INLAND ON SAIPAN ISLAND

Landing Forces Seize Town and Airstrip for New Break in Defense.

By The Associated Press

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, June 17—Grimly fighting Yank invaders, after street-by-street seizure of a coastal town and capture of its airstrip, punched slowly inland today on Saipan in the Marianas—unlocking bombed Japan's inner defense perimeter.

Official sources also disclosed that a task force had made the war's first attack on the Bonin and Kazan islands, destroying 47 planes, sinking two ships and damaging 10. This completed the dramatic picture of a grand scale air and naval operation which smashed Japan's steel industry and every base for 3,000 miles along a defense line from Paramushiro to Palau. The Bonins were the last link.

Americans Take Town

The first eyewitness reports from Saipan, where the American forces which landed Wednesday along a two-mile beachhead have won the town of Charan-Kanoa, supported official accounts of a bitter battle.

"The campaign is actually like Guadalcanal and Tarawa combined," Richard W. Johnston, representing the combined allied press, wrote today aboard a flagship at Saipan.

"The troops were faced with a savage land battle after surviving the fight for the beachhead and with scant prospect of a rapid cleanup, such as is possible in atoll warfare."

He said the casualties on Saipan were not expected to equal the Tarawa figures but assault battalions suffered material losses and the Japanese still were throwing mortars—their favorite weapon—into the beachhead area."

After the intense battleship bombardment and the 100-ton bombing by the carrier planes had forced the Japs from the beaches, the Yanks landed on both sides of Charan-Kanoa on Saipan's southwest coast, 1,500 miles from Tokyo. The enemy evacuated Charan-Kanoa's 3,000 civilians but Johnston said they left behind a strong rear guard which had to be "cleaned out in the first Pacific fighting comparable to Europe's house-to-house encounters."

Still Under Mortar Fire

Summarizing the situation, he reported the Charan-Kanoa airstrip has been won but still is under enemy mortar fire; on the south end of the beachhead, Yanks opened "a powerful attack today which carried them close to the Aslito airdrome;" on the north end, less than five miles below Garapan, that main town on Saipan was subjected to day-long American artillery fire."

"Thanks to the preparatory strikes against dozens of Japanese bases in the Carolines, Nippon was unable to send aloft a single plane to interfere with landing operations," Johnston praised.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced last night that the Yanks recoiled from an earlier response to score their hard-won success at Charan-Kanoa.

HINT NAZI FLEE FROM CHERBOURG

By The Associated Press

A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, June 17—An American fighter pilot said today he believed German troops are attempting to evacuate the Cherbourg peninsula to escape the trap being closed around them by Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's troops.

Capt. James Barnhardt of Rutherford College, N. C., said he saw German trucks and staff cars moving southward over the narrowing strip between the advancing Americans and the west coast of the peninsula.

"I think they want to get out of there, but our troops are moving in as fast as hell," he said.

Lt. Walter Turniers, Highlands, N. J., said the Germans were not moving any more equipment toward Caen.

"They must have everything up there they need," he said. "We didn't even see a railroad train going that way any more."

Intensive Sales Work Marks Bond Drive; Total $219,091

Thousands of Persons Reached in Rallies; E Bond Total of $181,706 Is 22 Per Cent of Quota.

The first week of Marion county's part in the Fifth War Loan drive drew to a close today with a record of some of the most intense selling activity ever conducted in Marion.

The progress figures don't reflect all of the work that has been done, for much of the activity will bear fruit later, but the drive leaders today felt cheered by the fact that the Fifth War Loan message is being carried into every home in the county, and into the industrial plants of the city.

"Marion county's out to do a job in this campaign, and the people aren't fooling about it," Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the county War Finance committee said. He made this observation after personally taking part in a busy series of factory bond rallies with two wounded servicemen as speakers, Electrician's Mate First Class Clarence Roth of Cleveland and Pfc. Ivan Ralph of Green Camp, who were originally brought to Marion for the week to help in the Universal Cooler Corp. drive and who, after that company topped its quota, were placed at the service of the county bond drive committee.

Series of Rallies

They spoke this morning at a rally that launched the Fifth War Loan drive among Osgood Co. employes. A detailed account of this rally appears elsewhere on this page. Today's talks followed eight appearances before employe groups Thursday and yesterday in company with Mr. Schoenlaub and R. E. White, drive chairman. In all of these places, war bond drives had been previously started.

On Thursday, the group visited Uhler's department store to meet with employes, and went to the Defiance Pressed Steel Co. where workers assembled to hear them.

Friday they went to the Marion Metal Products Co., the Anthony Laundry, the Erie roundhouse where Erie officials joined them in urging support of the bond drive, and finally to the Marion Steam Shovel Co. plant where 1,800 workers assembled to hear talks including appeals by Alex Gibson, shovel company vice president, and Chester C. Roberts, head of the corporations division of the drive.

Pleased by Response

Mr. Schoenlaub declared the response in each instance was good, and he voiced his pleasure over the fact that the bond drive appeals are being carried personally to so many thousand persons early in the drive. This, along with the house-to-house canvass made by the civilian defense workers in charge of the residential campaign is adding up to an unprecedented job of "solid selling" in Marion county, he declared. Meanwhile, he added, the block leaders are combing the business district and the rural division is carrying the drive into all corners of every township and rural community.

Today's progress report at the bond headquarters shows E bond sales yesterday totaled $30,018.75, pushing the E bond total up to $181,706.50 or 22 per cent of the E quota for Marion county.

Overall Picture

The overall total, coming entirely from individual purchasers, now stands at $219,091.50 which is 6½ per cent of the $3,365,000 overall quota. This percentage figure will take a big leap when sales to businesses and corporations, now being withheld from the drive reports, are counted in starting June 26.

Residential drive activity last night brought in $6,868.75 in new sales from Marion residents, pushing the total of this division of the drive up to the $30,678.25 since the start of work Tuesday night. This phase of work will continue on an intensive basis through next Tuesday with air raid sirens sounding each night at 7, except on Sunday.

Rally Launches Osgood Drive

An enthusiastic rally late this morning at the Osgood Co. plant launched the company's participation in the Fifth War Loan drive with a goal of an average of $100 invested for each employe by the time the drive ends.

The company's big steam-powered whistle, silent for 20 years because of the intensity of the blast it makes, sounded the kick-off signal for the rally at 11 o'clock this morning.

In response to the whistle, the workers assembled around a large truck decorated with bunting and pressed into service as a platform. The Butcher Boys orchestra started the program rolling with a group of songs. Members of the orchestra are A. D. Butcher, cornet, Ed. Beach, piano, Kenneth Kinsler, drummer, and Paul Ferguson, bass viol.

Then Henry Grad, Cincinnati singer who has been heard in broadcasts from Cincinnati stations, took charge to lead community singing of "God Bless America."

Wounded Seaman Speaks

Ben T. Wiant, company treasurer introduced Electrician's Mate First Class Clarence Roth of Cleveland, a wounded seaman, who spoke of his battle experiences and explained the need for a flood of war bond purchases to help build up America's military might to the point it could crush the enemy. He has been speaking at other war bond drive gatherings in Marion.

Pfc. Ivan Ralph of Green Camp, wounded in action and now spending the week in Marion to help push the Fifth War Loan, was introduced and briefly urged the workers to keep the war bonds rolling so that the flow of munitions and equipment to the fronts could be continued.

B-29 ENGINE STRIKE ENDS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 17—A strike of all 117 grinders in the tool grinding plant of a huge B-29 Super-Fortress engine works ended today less than 24 hours after its start. Officials of the Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler Corp. announced the men had returned to work but declined to state what sort of settlement had been reached.

1,000 BOMBERS HIT BASES IN INVASION AREA

U. S. Planes Blast German Airfields Around Normandy Beachhead.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 17—American heavy bombers pounded half a dozen Nazi airbases in a great arc extending half way around the Normandy battle zone today.

Six airfields in southern Normandy, the Paris area and near Boulogne were hit by around 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators as the Germans continued to hurl pilotless planes against Britain in spite of a double-barreled blow by allied bombers against the French sector from which they are launched.

Clouds again hampered the bombers just as they did yesterday when the heavies smashed at the Pas-De-Calais coast and three airfields in France, but the weather was somewhat improved and fighter-bombers ranged over and beyond the Normandy fighting zone in attacks on motor convoys, bridges, tanks, machine-gun nests and a German airfield on the Cherbourg peninsula.

Six Mustangs and two Thunderbolts failed to return from these late forenoon missions although one pilot landed safely behind allied lines.

15 TO START FOREST GLEN SENTENCES

Five Marion Men in Group To Begin Terms July 3.

Fifteen men, including five Marion men and several others formerly of Marion, have been ordered to surrender to a U. S. marshal on July 3 to start serving sentences passed two years ago in federal court at Columbus on cemetery lot sale charges growing out of the development of Forest Glen, Inc., The Associated Press reported today.

This order followed refusal of the supreme court to review their cases, their last hope of appeal.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Ray J. O'Donnell, in announcing the order yesterday, said the supreme court had denied the review after the court of appeals previously had refused to order a new hearing.

Forty-four defendants originally were named in indictments. Of that number four died, two entered nolle contendre pleas, the case of one was continued because of ill health, one pleaded guilty and one was dismissed. Three received suspended sentences. The others did not appeal.

The 15 ordered to report to a U. S. marhal were among 23 convicted of using the mails to defraud in the sale of cemetery lots for investment purposes, conspiracy, or both.

The cases involved the sale of burial lots in Forest Glen cemetery of Marion, Glen Rest at Columbus, and Glen Haven at Springfield.

Ordered to appear July 3 are: William N. Clark, Columbus, sentenced to five years and fined $1000 on 10 counts; Ben S. Riggle, Columbus, $1,000 on 10 counts and sentenced to three years; Willard S. Holcombe, Columbus, three years and $1,000 on 10 counts; Earl Pardee, Findlay, three years and $1,000 on 10 counts; G. F. Buck, Marion, three years and $1,000 on 10 counts;

Carl Bemman, Cleveland, three years, $1,000 on 10 counts; George Reinwald, Marion, six years and a day, $1,000 on 10 counts; Earl L. Holliday, Highland Park, Mich. (former Marion man), five years, $1,000 on 10 counts; R. C. Deck, Toledo, four years, $1,000 on 10 counts; A. L. Mallott, Marion, three years, $1,000 on 10 counts; W. Hal Marshall, Morenci, Mich., (former Marion man), three years, $1,000 on 10 counts; Byron L. McClure, Columbus, a year and $1,000 on one count; S. C. Neidigh, Marion, year and $1,000 on one count; Hiram Berry, Toledo, 18 months, $1,000 on one count, and E. G. Blue, Marion, 18 months, $1,000 on one count.

FINNS BLOWING UP BRIDGES TO VIIPURI

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 17—The Finns are blowing up all the bridges on two highways leading to Viipuri on the Karelian isthmus, seeking to halt the Red army's entry into the city, front dispatches said today.

But Soviet capture of the city appeared inevitable. The rumble of Russian big guns already was echoing strongly in its streets.

"As the offensive develops the battles assume a more violent character," said Red Star Correspondent Grigory Ivanov. "All attempts to stop the offensive are failing."

With more than 100 newly-captured populated points behind them the Russians with strong artillery and bomber support hurled an impressive weight of tanks, tommy-gunners and infantry in massive waves across the Karelian isthmus.

(A Finnish communique admitted the Finns had abandoned Uusikirkko, about 32 miles southeast of Viipuri after severe fighting in which they previously claimed to have killed 5,000 Russians and knocked out 25 tanks.

BRADLEY PRAISES FIGHTING SPIRIT OF AMERICAN MEN

By The Associated Press

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE, JUNE 17—The American army had 3,283 killed and 12,600 wounded in opening the western front in Normandy, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today.

The total of 15,883 casualties was for the first 11 days of the campaign, and included reports up to midnight last night, Gen. Bradley said.

He paid high tribute to the courage of doughboys in establishing the beachhead on the European continent.

Holds First Press Conference

The tall, tanned Missourian, looking extremely fit and in good spirits, appeared before beachhead correspondents in a group for the first time to discuss the campaign.

Bradley said casualties on the central beachhead, where the American First division and elements of the 29th division landed, had run higher than anticipated, but that casualties in the peninsula area to the west had been lower than anticipated.

This casualty report confirmed Bradley's confidence before the invasion when he predicted the continent would be invaded without creating the bloodbath which the enemy insisted would result and which many persons expected.

Praises Spirit of Troops

Bradley's first words to the correspondents who gathered in the tent under the shade of a huge beech tree were in praise of his doughboys and parachute troops and their leaders.

"Only by guts, valor and extreme bravery on the part of the men and their leaders involved were we able to make the landing a success," he said, "and I cannot say too much for the parachute troops who dropped in the rear and made the job easier for the beach troops. They did a marvelous job."

The general disclosed that since D-Day there had been two critical periods when the Germans might have created a serious situation by an attack in force.

The first period, he said, was when the doughboys fighting their way ashore in the central beachhead were encountering a reinforced Nazi division. This was where the First division and supporting elements of the 29th fought their historic beach battle.

The second critical time was when American forces were trying to make their junction of beachheads secure north of Carentan. This was a soft spot at the time because it was a junction point between the American Seventh corps on the Cherbourg peninsula and the Fifth corps on the central beachhead.

Misses Two Chances

The general declared emphatically that he thought the enemy now had lost his chance to drive the allies back into the sea and that the beachhead now was absolutely secure.

Since their landings, American troops have captured and evacuated 8,500 prisoners, Bradley said.

He estimated the number of German divisions in France to be in the middle 60's, with 16 divisions or elements fighting against the entire Normandy bridgehead.

American losses are expected to be higher than those of the British and Canadians—figures as yet undisclosed—because the U. S. First and 29th divisions met the heavyweight fighting on landing. Going ashore in the center, these units ran into a Nazi division holding maneuvers on a difficult beach. Both the British and Canadians made their original landings comparatively easy—as did other Americans on the west flank—although they have been engaged in heavy fighting since then.

U. S. Guns Fire on Last Road for Germans' Cherbourg Exit

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, JUNE 17—American troops driving to pinch off the top of Cherbourg peninsula brought the Germans' last escape road under hammering artillery fire today, and a U. S. fighter pilot reported signs of German flight from the cape and its great port.

One U. S. column beating west of Carentan fought within four miles of Le Haye Du Puits, the Nazis' last main road junction at the shortest neck of the peninsula, and forces farther north had cut Cherbourg's western railway by seizing St. Sauveur Le Vicomte. Still other Americans had recaptured Montebourg, 14 miles southeast of Cherbourg.

Even as artillery blasted the Germans' last road on their dwindling western strip of the peninsula, an American pilot said he saw enemy trucks and staff cars moving south, and declared he believed the Germans "want to get out of there, but our troops are moving in fast."

Cherbourg threatened to become another Sevastopol for the Germans, with their escape cut off except by sea, as happened in the Crimea.

Nazi Attacks Repulsed

On the eastern end of the battlefront, supreme headquarters declared strong German attacks were beaten off east of Caen, and a headquarters officer said two unsuccessful Nazi counterblows in the Troarn area, seven miles beyond Caen were "extremely costly" to the enemy.

Toward the center, the Allies punched out local advances despite heavy opposition between Caumont and Tilly-Sur-Seulles, the communique said.

(The German high command said Nazi counterattacks had regained the greater part of the forest area south of Bavent, 3½ miles north of Troarn, and east of the Orne river.)

Bad weather and rough seas hampered unloading as well as other operations and made it unlikely that the Allies would put in a full-scale attack until the weather improves and they can use their air superiority to the full.

Only slight activity was reported along the 100-mile-plus beachhead front, although the Germans made two heavy and "extremely costly" counter-attacks in the Troarn area, east of Caen, which were repulsed.

In these attacks Field Marshal Erwin Rommel used tanks and infantry in efforts to penetrate British positions at Breville and Escoville, respectively seven and four and a half miles northeast of Caen.

Honor Thy Father

A SERMONETTE

By REV. ALBERT M. HOOD

Pastor of Second Pilgrim Holiness Church

And the son said unto him, "Father . . . ." Luke 15:21

"HONOR thy father . . ." from the book of Exodus, and the pen of Moses, places upon children a divine command to honor and obedience of one's father. Sad the trend today of many of our youth is away from the faith of our fathers . . ." Yet, there is a sad picture, in that so many fathers by their example, are leading their children to dishonor and disobedience. In spite of all this plight and waywardness "Father" in all of its truest meaning, remains unchanged.

One of the most gracious portraits of the true father is recorded by Luke in the parable of the prodigal son. In thinking of the prodigal son, we see four steps, and may God grant that many will take these steps.

The prodigal son first realized, then returned, he recognized his father and was restored.

Realization in all of its fullness awakened the son to the terrible plight he was in. Once he had a beautiful home life, all the good, the right, the beautiful, but now, the grim realization of groveling with the swine for the mere husks of the corn. How sad, in the quagmires of sin today, many grovel, almost unaware of father or home. Yet, all it would take would be a realization that they were in the wrong place, and in that realization, find their way back to father and home.

In realizing his plight, this son returned. Yes, he returned to father and home and all that it afforded. Truly that is what it takes, a return to the principles, the teachings, obedience to and honor our father, to lift us from the swine pen. Sad, that so many depend upon those in the swine pen to lift them, but "How can the blind lead the blind?" It does take a return to father.

IN RETURNING the son recognized his father, saying, "Father . . ." The disrespectful and dishonoring way we hear so many of our youth speak of, or to their father brings a sadness to our hearts. Recognition of father is to have the blessing of God upon us, for in Exodus 20:12 "Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Next we wonder why the youth of today face so many adversities, when they dishonor and disrespect their fathers. May God help us this Father's day to return to the love, honor and respect for our Fathers that is due them.

Realizing, returning and recognizing his true father, the father restored his son. What love, what patience, what forbearance. Yes, the true father calls for the fatted calf, the best robe, yea a great time of festivities, because his son is alive and at home. Many a youth lost on the shores of time, in that moment of realization, a hastening to return, and a sincere recognition of father would be restored into the family, bringing much joy to the aching heart of a dear old "Daddy" in these trying days of heartaches and sadness.

May God bless our faithful fathers on this their day as they wait to welcome us home.

Two Churches Here Name New Pastors

Two new pastors were called by Marion Baptist congregations recently and will take up their duties here in the near future, it was announced today.

In a special business meeting Wednesday night members of Fite Memorial Baptist church voted to extend a call to Rev. C. B. Jones of Columbus to become pastor and at a special meeting at the close of the morning service in Emmanuel Baptist church last Sunday it was voted to call Dr. Clem E. Hershey, pastor at Saltillo, Pa. The pastorates here were left open recently when Rev. Dana M. Austin went to Chicago to enroll for further theological training there and Rev. Ernest A. Finkenbiner accepted a call to become pastor of Central Baptist church, Columbus.

Rev. Jones will be here tomorrow to preach at both morning and evening services in the Fite Memorial church. In the interval between the call of Dr. Hershey and his arrival here from Pennsylvania other ministers will fill the pulpit of the Emmanuel church for Sunday services. Rev. Tom Presnell, evangelist with headquarters in Marion who has conducted campaigns in the church at various times, will preach tomorrow. He has just returned from an evangelistic and Bible conference tour.

Things To Consider

When faced with the necessity of employing the services of a Funeral Director, a number of factors should be considered. The one chosen should be reliable in both his financial and ethical practices. He must be worthy of the trusts you will wish to place in him. His business assets, such as funeral home, rolling stock, and furnishings are expected to be modern. We base our business upon these factors, and point to our satisfied clients as proof of our claim.

"BETTY" CODE WORD FOR "BOMBS AWAY"

By The Associated Press

WEIRTON, W. Va., June 17—The "Betty" whose name flashed the code signal that meant the first "bombs away" in Thursday's Super Fortress raid on Japan's steel industry was "thrilled beyond words" today.

"Did he really use my name for that?" the wife of Lt. Col. James Garcia, chief of the bomber command intelligence section, asked. "I'm so thrilled I can't talk."

Garcia was in a Super Fortress piloted by Lt. Col. Winton Close of Los Angeles, husband of Betty's sister, Jane.

Mrs. Garcia said she hadn't seen her husband since he left Salina, Kas., for China last April 4. His home is at Del Norte, Colo.

"He knew pretty well what to expect when he got to China, and hoped that he'd be on a raid over Japan," she said. "That was his ambition when he first was assigned to the Super Fortresses. He told me those planes would be the thing that would knock Japan out of the war."

Mrs. Garcia is a daughter of Thomas E. Millsop, president of Weirton Steel Co.

Ancient people thought emeralds, sharpened the wits, conferred riches, and when placed under the tongue, gave the power of prediction.

CALL NAZI PLANE DANGEROUS WEAPON

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 17—The pilotless planes the Nazis have launched against England are viewed by military men here as a definitely dangerous weapon.

Opening of the barrage on England gave part of the answer to a mystery that had caused concern among Allied leaders—the nature of the secret weapon of which the Germans had boasted.

For the moment, the immediate job is to locate exactly the position from which the planes are launched and then attack these positions from the air. Meanwhile, scientists presumably are studying the devices with the view of developing methods for upsetting controls used to direct the pilotless craft and thereby deflect them from intended targets.

One thing puzzling observers here is why Hitler refrained from using the new weapon against the invasion forces.

Dispatches received so far do not indicate whether the launching mechanism for the pilotless plane is a fixed or mobile mount.

On the basis of first reports from England, the weapon has a range of at least 90 miles (the distance from Calais to London).

NEW YORK, June 17—Military installations bombed by the Allied air forces for nearly a year were the launching platforms for the new weapons—the pilotless plane—used by the Germans against London last night and today, the British information service said.

For months before D-day, Allied aerial onslaughts were carried out incessantly against what were described as "mystery installations" in the Pas De Calais area of France.

And a sad and lonely grave
Of a wife and mother, kind and gentle.

SOLID FUELS ADMINISTRATION FOR WAR REGULATION NUMBER 21 READS IN PART AS FOLLOWS:

"Up to October 1st, 1944, no retail dealer may deliver to a consumer, and NO CONSUMER MAY RECEIVE FROM ALL SOURCES COMBINED, a tonnage of the scarcer solid fuels which exceeds 75 percent of the consumer's annual requirements, less his April 1st, 1944, inventory."

In consideration of the above order, and after a survey of the probable amount of coal available, the following dealers find that it will not be feasible to deliver during the SUMMER MONTHS more than 50 percent of consumer requirements of domestic coal. Should the available supply be increased, the dealers will be glad to increase their deliveries accordingly. Orders for season requirements that have been partly filled will be held open and the balance of the order delivered as the supply of coal permits.

YOUR INVASION!

FROM GENERAL BRADLEY, leading the invasion ground forces on the Normandy beaches, right through every rank, American men now face a brutal, desperate, able enemy. For this invasion has only begun—and before our fighters lies a hard and bloody task. That they will be equal to that task we know.

They include Marion boys, your sons and brothers, and men who before they left, helped Marion industry produce weapons with which they fight. They include Osgood, General Excavator, Alloy Cast Steel and Commercial Steel Casting employees whose badges now occupy a place of honor on our company walls.

The big part of their job is yet before them. It will be up to you to remember that early victories usually only mean more savage opposition from a foe made more bitter, more ruthless as the shadow of his doom grows larger.

There is one thing you can do to show those men that you realize what they must face, perhaps for many months. You can back the attack with every dollar you can spare! Let the bonds you buy show Marion fighting men that Marion is behind them, that you at home BELIEVE in their ultimate Victory!

Naval Exhibit

PENDING disclosure of Admiral William F. Halsey's future duties in the war many millions of his countrymen will wonder if he ever can find greater opportunities than those he availed so brilliantly in the South Pacific.

At a time when public confidence in the Navy's ability to hold its own—and a little better—in the Pacific was open to doubt, Admiral Halsey became a kind of naval exhibit to bolster the people's morale.

He revealed the qualities Americans expected their professional navy men to possess and use. He did more to bring back the navy than any other individual, not because he was unique, but because circumstances and his own character enabled him to make the reassuring publicity the nation needed to bolster its confidence.

There will be many heroes in the war. Some will be long remembered, some will be soon forgotten. It is pleasant to think that a century from now, or even longer, there still will be no naval hero who looked and acted the part any better than Admiral Halsey, who performed a psychological service as well as his duty, which was to blast the daylights out of the enemy.

A Day for Fathers

FATHER'S day finally has grown to be a national occasion, thanks to the sly encouragement given to it by its beneficiaries. They lent themselves to it for a curious reason; namely, to give their well wishers a chance to blow off emotional steam.

They recognized, to put it another way, that if the fuss over fatherhood could be channeled into one special occasion, the whole thing would be easier to keep track of. There would be a little peace and quiet the rest of the year.

As one thinks of the American father on his day being waited on hand and foot by his solicitous family, not being nagged to do or not to do anything, but just living the life of a carefree male for one delirious day, it makes a tender picture. The old boy is togged out in all the stuff that has been showered on him by his loved ones. Or, if he is away at the war, which is the plight of many fathers this year, he is comforted by the thought they are waiting for him to come home to trim the shrubbery, help with the dishes, discipline the children, meet the bills and behave in a manner that will not make his admiring brood ashamed of him. He knows he means more to them than ever before.

Father's day this year is properly putting the emphasis on fathers who are away, and the reason for the emphasis is plain. Until fathers go away, practically no one ever realizes how indispensable fathers are.

Probabilities

THE decision in the invasion area may come within the next few days. The battle, meanwhile, will rest on probabilities.

The Germans probably will not be able to oust the invading forces, which now constitute a major force. They probably will be able to confine the forces, however, for an indefinite period.

This exigency probably will be met by the Allies in the form of new invasions calculated to disperse German resistance over other critical areas. Meanwhile, the Allies probably will be able to capture the port of Cherbourg, enabling them to strengthen their striking power in Normandy.

There probably will be new developments in the Mediterranean, for the purpose of complicating Germany's plight on the Italian peninsula, and the likeliest of these probabilities is a new landing behind the retreating German armies.

On Russia's front, too, there probably will be new offensives to accompany the offensive in Finland.

Circumstances as well as plans will dictate the moves to be made, but the important thing is now that the Allies are able to make the plans while Germany retains only limited ability to dictate the circumstances.

So They Say—

There have been several reports that the Atlantic Wall has proved to be a bluff. This is to do less than justice to the Allied troops. There may have been some places where they got in with no great difficulty, but there were beaches where it was "touch and go" whether they would be able to establish themselves at all.—The Times of London.

All of the things which we use in this war, everything we send to our fighting Allies, costs money—a lot of money. One sure way every man, woman and child can keep faith with those who have given and are giving their lives is to provide the money which is needed to win the final victory.—President Roosevelt.

If the Germans could have had our air force for one day and had used it against the invasion, there could have been no landings.—Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles, deputy AAF commander.

You are state-minded and collective-minded. We are most private-minded and most individual-minded and, gentlemen, make no mistake, we are determined to remain so and even become more so.—Eric A. Johnston, president U. S. Chamber of Commerce, in Moscow speech.

Today and Tomorrow

Grave Question of U. S. French Policy Believed Seriously Neglected.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

I A system of personal government, where the will of one man is supreme, portends disaster of one kind or another. A difference of opinion is difficult and may be dangerous. If the opinion is to march with action, and to be ready to negotiate, it becomes necessary to bring the argument to a conclusion. The very test that makes the United States a great power in the world is the way it settles its own differences.

[illegible] Europe and the settlement of the war, has become a personal matter to a degree which the American people have not yet realized, to a degree which responsible and informed American journalists feel constrained to touch upon with great reserve.

Throughout the winter and spring while preparations for our landing in France were being made it was the general belief in Allied official circles that agreements on all the most points could certainly be reached as a result of the elaborate negotiations among the British, the French committee, and our military, financial, and diplomatic agencies.

Specific and unqualified assurances were given that agreements had in fact been reached, and that they required nothing more than the formal approval of the President. As the weeks dragged on and that approval was not given, it was explained that the President had been overworked and ill, but that the papers were on his desk, and that he would get to them very soon. Even Secretary Hull must have thought this was the position, or he would never have said what he said about France in his address of April 9.

Approval Never Given

But the approval was never given, and the invasion had to be launched without any agreement among the Allies, without any agreement with the French, and without any plan for the government of liberated territory.

The ugly consequences of this situation were anticipated by responsible officials and informed observers here and abroad. They are now becoming apparent. One may judge how serious they are by the fact that four European governments, all of them deeply concerned to retain the good will of the President and of the American nation, have openly separated themselves from Mr. Roosevelt by recognizing the French provisional government.

That would not have happened, that could not have happened, if they were not profoundly convinced that Gen. de Gaulle is the leader of the French nation and that as a Frenchman they cannot and will not enter the period of their own liberation without a working partnership with France.

One may judge the seriousness of the matter by the fact that Mr. Churchill said to it how a personal plea to the people of Commonwealth to drop the President's policy. We [illegible]

[illegible] Harold Callender of the New York Times, that the French mistrust the intentions of Mr. Roosevelt, and believe that he has designs upon their colonial empire.

This explanation of his persistent refusal to countenance the creation of a strong French national authority has long been current as rumor and gossip in Washington. It has now been brought into the open by an article in the United States News which was published in Washington on April 14, and was reproduced in summary form by the Stars and Stripes which circulates in North Africa.

Not Disavowed

This article on Mr. Roosevelt's view has never been officially disavowed. Yet a similar report of our alleged designs on Brazil was immediately and unequivocally disavowed by Secretary Hull. Let us hope that the failure up to this time to disavow the report about France was an oversight.

It is ominous that at this time our relations with the only French authority should be so bad that many Fighting Frenchmen believe the President wishes to keep France weak for unworthy reasons while the White House conducts a propaganda to suggest that the Fighting French are sabotaging the invasion.

Surely there must be some way of lifting the great matters at stake to a different and higher level, and of rising above this personal feud to a statesmanlike treatment of of the problem. How this is to be done it is hard to say. It is one of the deep views of personal government that when a great issue becomes a personal matter, evidence, reason, persuasion, compromise, common sense have to contend against pride and prejudice.

Not since Woodrow Wilson was immured in the White House and rejected or refused to hear the counsel of his advisors, and thus wrecked the League and the settlement because he would not give way at all, has there been a condition at all similar in character to that in which our French policy has been bogged down these many months.

What War Bonds Mean at the Front

LONDON—For lack of guns, planes and tanks Norway, Yugoslavia, Greece and Crete fell.

I watched them all crumble like pins in a bowling alley, not because of any lack of courage by their defenders but because they did not have the materials with which to fight.

Men and women who had sweated and slaved for years to accumulate savings for old age would have given it all for a gun or even a rifle—but it was too late.

When you try to shrink your way through the bottom of a shell hole as high explosives rain around until you feel like it is crawling away from your bones you get a first hand picture of what the "materials of war" mean.

The Difference

The difference between a victorious army and a defeated one is that of having an abundance of war materials. The army that can fire two shells where one might do wins the battles. And victorious armies have the lowest casualties.

I have seen scores of lives wasted because there were not enough shells or planes available to knock out enemy defense positions. And I have seen hundreds of lives saved in the plains and mountains of Africa and Italy because the Allies could afford to send out two planes to the enemy's one and fire five shells to the enemy's two.

Money as expressed in guns, tanks and planes can mean the difference between victory and defeat. It can mean the difference between losing a son or loved one in battle and getting him back again.

What Bonds Mean

To the men at the fighting front money spent in war bonds means a flow of guns and munitions to where they are most needed. America's fighting men need only the tools with which to fight and the only tangible way they know that the "folks back home" are behind them is by the steady uninterrupted stream of munitions which give them a fighting chance to live.

Twice I have been overrun by the German army. Once in Denmark and once in Greece. I have seen deserted Allied prisoners dragging back to prison camps in Germany because they did not have the essentials of war while cocky Nazi youths sneeringly watched.

Twice I have seen Allied armies overrun the Germans, once in Africa and once in Italy. And the same cocky youths who two years before overran Europe started treks toward prison camps, their arrogance beaten down even by the overwhelming Allied fire power.

In all four cases the difference between victory and defeat was furnished by the home front—in savings and in work.

Impregnable Theory Exploded

Germany's Famous Atlantic Wall Pierced by Invasion.

PUBLIC reassurance has been given that casualties in the invasion of Normandy were not as heavy as expected. It is no secret that some of the leading operations encountered terrific resistance, but so far as is known up to the present, Germany's supposedly impregnable defense was pierced at every point called for in the invasion plan.

Gen. Eisenhower has predicted, following proof that landings could be made, that there will be additional invasions. Allied strategy plainly expects to keep the defending forces off balance. If Germany commits too large a force to make the counter-attack in Normandy, it will be hit some where else. On the other hand, if it holds too much power in reserve, the Normandy invasion will be developed as rapidly as possible, with the ultimate aim of extending the invasion area first to Cherbourg and later to Le Havre to the north and the peninsula of Brittany and the key port of Brest to the south.

While the implications of developments so far are being digested at home, it is important to remember that actual experience in the frontal assault on Europe has revealed a number of vitally important facts to the Allied command and their fighting forces.

GERMANY'S Atlantic Wall, which many had thought to be an impassible barrier, was not impassable in Normandy. It has been demonstrated that aerial reconnaissance can give the Allied command the information it needs to pick out the inevitable weak spots in any defense and exploit them. The Allies have the advantage of knowing where they are going to strike; the Germans fight under the disadvantage of not knowing where they must make their best stand.

There has been no mention in communiques or eyewitness stories of any secret weapon, as was promised by Adolf Hitler as a "surprise" for attackers. This does not mean that new weapons may not appear somewhere else but it discounts that apprehension of the unknown which was a psychological factor of great importance in the invasion prospect.

The German air force, whatever may be its actual status either did not or could not exploit a crucial opportunity to strike at one of the most vulnerable of all military operations—an overwater movement of masses of troops and equipment. This was contrary to the expectations of Allied commanders, who had taken extraordinary precautions against this obvious move.

The myth that German troops encountered elsewhere were not up to the standard of the troops responsible for the defense of western Europe has been exploded. The Allied personnel in Normandy, much of it under fire for the first time, but sparked by the leadership and example of battle-tried troops, acquitted itself satisfactorily against the force first encountered and promises to maintain its record in subsequent actions.

German coastal guns were knocked out methodically by naval artillery, the one fighting force for which Germany has no counterpart. Even its submarine fleet was not committed, and its small surface fleet, aside from a minor force of destroyers and other smaller craft, was not involved.

USE of troops dropped by parachute behind enemy lines and landed by gliders was demonstrated on a larger scale than ever before, with damaging effect to German communications and morale. One of the most unusual stories of the invasion concerns a glider which made a crash landing by accident on the roof of a military headquarters building, whose occupants were promptly captured before they could organize for their defense.

While the lessons learned from the ability of a determined and well equipped enemy to penetrate any static defense ever created always are different in detail, they always are the same in kind.

There is a weak place in every defense than can be stormed successfully, and any static defense once it has been breached, becomes useless. The Atlantic Wall on which Germany counted heavily is gone. It has other walls further inland—further static defenses. In time, they, too, will be breached and made as useless as the Maginot line, once the most powerful and most massive static defense ever constructed.

When Germany lost the initiative and had to fall back on static defenses to avert the result, it lost the war. Its defeat became at that moment what it still is—a matter of time to prepare the equipment and train the manpower to force surrender.

Sittering

By Truman Twill

Old timers still remember the "sitters"—those helpful people who used to hold the baby and watch over the children while their parents and mothers took in a movie, or escaped for home-cooking for one night only.

Sitters usually were young ladies who lent a hand to the more abundant life movement of parents in return for a gratuity which varied from two bits for a brief tour of duty—maybe on an emergency trip to the doctor's—to a dime for money for the works. The works was when the sitter took charge of feeding, bathing and bedding the deserted brood and slept on the davenport till it was time to get hauled home in the middle of the night.

There also were the sleepers, who were not so common, but not unknown. The sleeper was the sitter who stayed all night, because it was a long jaunt to go home. This was arranged in advance for very special occasions.

Not all these helpful people were young ladies. Many were middle-aged and old ladies who had nothing else to do in the evening anyway and were wide open to the suggestion of six bits of unearned increment to be had up in an easy chair, not to mention the magazines that might be on hand and the possibility the radio was in good working condition.

There even were young men sitters and, in a great while old men. With males, sitting was strictly sentry duty. They were practically guaranteed there would be nothing to do but sit tight. But a sitter's duties were never onerous. It was a watchman's routine and a large part of it was more psychological than anything.

The profession hits its peak in the depression when a citizen with $5 had to decide whether to buy into a business partnership or take his wife out for a big evening. Six bits for a sitter in those palmy days was a ten-spot. For an extra 25 cents or maybe nothing more than a winning smile she would tidy up the kitchen. This actually happened, dear reader, and don't think so ask anyone who was alive in the World Depression I, which came after World war I and just before World war II.

There are still sitters, just as there are still paper hangers, carpenters and gentlemen who know what makes the funny noises in the refrigerator—if you can find them. Some of the sitters in the old days would have been so young that they would have been sitees, themselves, and at present work on a cost-plus basis with time and a half for overtime, full social security coverage and are not available any night out of four or alternate months. But the tradition is being carried on after a fashion like the hand-forging of silver by hand. Common people can't afford it, but the art is still alive.

OHIO LIQUOR SALES TO HIT NEW HIGH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 17 — Ohio's liquor sales will soar to $100,000,000 this year—a record high, Liquor Director Don A. Fisher predicted yesterday as sales for the first 22 weeks topped all comparable periods in the history of the department.

Fisher reported liquor sales climbed to $40,465,186 in the period from Jan. 1 to June 3, an increase of $12,903,273 over the corresponding 1943 period.

This exceeded the record set in 1942 when sales totaled $35,112,871 for the first 22 weeks.

Gallonage sales ran to 2,754,730 gallons from Jan. 1 to June 3 this year, a slight increase over the 2,241,949 for the comparable period last year, but down nearly 50 per cent from the record established in 1942 when 4,158,959 gallons were sold.

Fisher said the huge gain in money sales reflected the fact that suppliers had withdrawn much of their lower-priced products from the market. The new federal excise tax of $3 per proof gallon, effective April 1, also accounted for some of the increase, Fisher said, but he added that even before that date sales were way ahead.

Building Quiz

Q.: I have a large front bedroom on the second floor, partly over the porch. My bed is always cold. I have tried putting papers between the spring and mattress, and then tried a comforter between the springs and mattress but to no avail. Any way I try, the bed is as cold as can be. We have furnace heat, but that doesn't help the bed being cold. Can you offer any suggestions?

A.: I believe the bedroom floor is chilled from the porch underneath, so that the whole room including the bed become extremely cold at night, when the furnace has cooled off. It would help to nail up an insulating material in blanket form against the under side of the porch roof. A thick pad underneath the carpet would prevent excessive chilling of the floor. You could make the bed warmer by sleeping between light woolen blankets instead of sheets.

• • •

Q.: I am removing the paper in other rooms. Before repapering will it be necessary to glue-size the walls again

A.: After removing the old paper the walls should be washed, and hardened shreds of paper and paste must be scraped off. Glue-sized will again be needed after the walls have dried.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES
O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist.

Q.: I am sending a drawing of the holes in the trunk of my pine tree, which I think are made by the downy woodpecker. This little fellow is the only bird I have found pecking at the trunk. According to my bird guide, it would be the yellow bellied sapsucker who would do the damage, but the bird I see pecking at the trunk is smaller. So far the tree does not show any bad effects in growth, however, the holes are very close and cover a distance beginning at three feet from the ground up all around the trunk for 10 feet, and the sap flows so freely that I fear I am losing this beautiful tree.

A.: It is not uncommon to have the yellow bellied sapsucker punching holes in the bark of a pine tree. Unfortunately, many people mistake the sapsucker for the downy woodpecker which is an extremely beneficial bird. There is absolutely nothing that can be done after the damage has been done by the sapsucker, except hope that the holes are not so close together as to girdle the tree and kill that part of the tree above the injury. The sapsucker's damage is indicated by a series of more or less rectangular holes in horizontal rows around the trunk of the tree. It is amazing how regular he can punch these holes and how evenly he can make the rows. After the damage has been done, there is nothing you can do. Occasionally, you can prevent further damage by putting a layer of burlap around the trunk. My observation has been that, once the damage has been done, the sapsucker usually does not come back.

BEETLE TRAPS TO BE PLACED HERE

Installation Scheduled During Next Few Days.

A number of Japanese beetle traps will be placed in Marion during the next few days to obtain information on the occurrence and status of the insect in order to aid study of methods of control, J. W. Baringer, chief of the division of plant industry, announced yesterday. The metal insect traps will be placed by the Ohio Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Most traps will be placed in residential districts, and Mr. Baringer has asked cooperation of residents by allowing inspectors to use their properties. Inspectors will carry credentials. Traps will be placed about 15 feet from plants on which the beetles feed and authorities have asked that the traps be left undisturbed unless inspectors are consulted. Traps are left at locations for about 30 days and function best when they are placed in a sunny location.

Trap inspectors do not have information about other pests. Requests for information may be addressed to Mr. Baringer, chief, Division of Plant Industry, Ohio Department of Agriculture, Columbus, 15, O.

The Japanese beetle is an introduced pest. It appears as an adult beetle in the vicinity of New Jersey about the middle of June. In locations to the south it may appear earlier. It is most abundant and active during July and August when it feeds on blossoms, fruit and foliage, causing graet damage to many plants.

St. Mary School Project Money Goes Into Bonds

Three Fifth War Loan officials look on as Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, seated at left, pastor of St. Mary Catholic church, writes two $1,000 war bonds to Rev. Father Francis Lay, who until this week was assistant pastor at St. Mary. Those standing, left to right, are Elmer J. Schoenlaub, Marion County War Finance Committee chairman, Robert E. White, Fifth War Loan chairman, and W. E. Orcutt, chairman of the residential drive.

Crestline Druggist Slugged in Holdup

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, O., June 17—C. E. Trory, Crestline druggist was slugged in the face and knocked down by a robber who entered his store about 7 o'clock last night. The man looted the cash drawer and ran.

Twenty minutes later, police arrested H. F. Davidson of Jefferson, Ind., near Crestline and charged him with the holdup. They said the amount of money taken from the cash drawer corresponded with the amount found on him. He is to be arraigned before Mayor Sonner.

Mr. Trory was treated for bruises and lacerations about the face.

Money Raised by Pupils To Be Used for Visual Education.

The Fifth War Loan got off to a dramatic start at St. Mary school this week when two $1,000 bonds were purchased to provide funds in future years for visual education facilities at the school.

Money earned by St. Mary parochial school boys and girls in a paper drive and in other activities made the purchases possible, and bonds will add an appreciable amount to their earnings in the period that must elapse before visual education equipment will again become available for civilian use.

Father Spickerman, an active sales worker in the Fifth War Loan drive, personally wrote the bonds, making sale to Rev. Father Lay, who until the middle of this week served as assistant pastor at St. Mary Catholic church. He has been transferred to the church of the Annunciation at Clifton, Cincinnati. The bonds will be cashed when suitable equipment can be obtained for the visual education program.

Fifth War Loan officials saw in the purchase the suggestion for a number of other possible similar sales to organizations holding funds for purchase of equipment in the years after the war. They attended a brief ceremony at the St. Mary rectory where the bonds were written, and in commenting on the purchase voiced the hope that it would lead to other organization purchases of bonds during the Fifth War Loan.

Last 48 Hours Brings Important News for Allies

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
(Substituting for DeWitt Mackenzie)

The last 48 hours have brought a staggering amount of news about the way the world is going. The word "significant" has been written in the sky, on the land and sea and on the diplomatic front.

The Germans have launched the secret aerial weapons which allied armies tried for months to knock out. From President Roosevelt's press-war plans were overshadowed by the wings of the Reich and developments in France. Sensational reports about General De Gaulle, revealing much of the temper of that man and why we have been reluctant to go too far with him, received only passing attention. (And now, in passing, there is only room to say that, if De Gaulle continues to swing his military strength as a political club, promising and withdrawing according to the rules of negotiation, he will create one of the most critical military crises the Allies have had to face.)

Staggers the Imagination

All of these, and Russia's resumed military activity, carry weights which almost founder attempts at correlation.

But off in the far Pacific and down in New Guinea the prologue has been spoken to a two-act play which, in less crowded days, would have the country by the ears. Its full significance is not yet clear, but there is no mistaking that it is big.

The widespread attacks by sea and air from New Guinea to the Kuriles certainly seem to mean that MacArthur is preparing to keep his promise "I will return," and that Nimitz is clearing the flanks of the route back to the Philippines.

And, judging by our progress since Tarawa, that return will be this year. No longer are our Pacific forces riding the leads from island to island. The Marianas offensive is an express stop from the Marshalls—1,000 miles—past Truk, once called Japan's "Pearl Harbor." After the Marianas comes Palau, reputed bastion on the right flank of MacArthur's route which also may prove to be no fortress, or possibly a direct move by the Navy to meet MacArthur in the Philippines.

New Guinea Cleanup

MacArthur himself has some cleaning up in New Guinea which may be heard from soon. The situation regarding the Moluccas is not clear, but he may be able to by-pass them entirely, since the new moves are rapidly cutting off Japan's Pacific supply routes, forcing her into the narrow passes north of the Philippines, which are duck soup for submarines, and into the South China sea.

The Japanese war may see its climax in China and the home islands, but, just as we believe the European invasion brought the war there into its final phase, so we may be watching now the beginning of the end of the Pacific war proper.

Vast convoys of supplies will have to start moving westward instead of eastward before the showdown, and we undoubtedly will have to face again, as in 1942, the loss of some of our finest ships and men.

Nazis Hiding in Hedge Rows Mowed Down by U. S. Tanks

By DON WHITEHEAD
AP War Correspondent

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS SOUTHWEST OF CARENTAN, June 16.—Fighting, the toughest and bitterest of any on the entire American front, continues in this sector.

The roads are littered with German dead, mowed down by the withering fire from tanks. At least 500 dead Nazis are piled up in the ditches and hedgerows where SS troops and parachute troops fought fanatically in a mad effort to break through between two beachheads two days ago.

But as the Germans advanced along the hedgerows and under cover of bushes American tanks ran up and "gave 'em the garden hose"—sprayed the area with more than 60,000 rounds of .30 caliber machinegun bullets.

"The krauts fell from trees and out of the hedges like flies," said Capt. Harry Void, Cleveland Heights, O.

Time after time the tanks charged, crushing Nazis under their steel treads.

The battle was raging for a crossroads about two miles southwest of Carentan and that was where Tank Commander Sgt. Wilbur K. Rockwell, Antrim, N. H., and his gunner, Corp. George W. Smith, Silver Creek, Miss., set an American beachhead record by knocking out three tank-mounted 105 MM. German guns at 1,000 yards with three shots.

The Yanks were hard pressed and when the tanks rolled up they stood up in their foxholes and cheered wildly.

plant near Duisburg and targets in Berlin.

Aneta, Dutch news agency, said a Netherlands air officer in the RAF reported one of the rocket plane bases was wrecked in an attack at Doullens.

The night blow against Pas De Calais came a few hours after U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators in the last hours of daylight yesterday pounded these same installations.

Although miserable flying weather once more hampered air support of the invasion armies yesterday, supreme headquarters said 2,500 sorties (individual plane flights) were flown by allied air units—about 1,000 of them by American heavy bombers and their escort in the twilight smash at the Pas De Calais.

Mosquitos Raid Berlin

The night attack on Berlin was made by Mosquitos, while British Lancasters and Halifaxes continued the allied campaign aimed at drying up Hitler's war machine by dumping tons of explosives on the Fischer Tropsch synthetic oil plant at Sterkrade, about five miles north of Duisburg. It was the second time this week the RAF had gone over Germany in strength.

King George Visits French Beachhead

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 17 — King George VI visited the Normandy beachhead yesterday, his trip marking the first time in four centuries that a reigning sovereign of England has set foot on Norman soil to visit his armies fighting there.

The king crossed the channel on the British cruiser Arethusa and landed from an amphibious "duck," Louis Wulff, Reuters correspondent representing the combined Allied press, said in a dispatch from the warship.

CLOSE SOFTBALL RACES

AS WAS expected by softball officials before the season got under way, the races in both of Marion's softball leagues this summer will be close. The loops are the Industrial and Commercial circuits. The Sunday School league, on the other hand, is being labeled as another All-Eppworth set up.

In the Industrial league, Universal Cooler again looks like the team to beat despite critical loss of manpower to the armed forces. Marion Steam Shovel, formerly thought to be a virtual "cinch" for Industrial league honors, doesn't appear so formidable, especially since the recent upset defeat by Bill Darnell's Cooler.

Last season, Cooler won the Industrial league crown but then was blessed with some dandy players rated among the best in Marion and vicinity softball. Many of them have left during the interim between the Little World Series last summer and this spring. But the Universal boys still have that will to win and evidently won't accept second best.

Huber, Cooler and Steam Shovel are expected to conduct a close battle for laurels in the Industrial league. Last year it was Cooler and Huber with Universal finally winning out after a season full of keen rivalry. Shovel has some excellent players and after working together as a unit for a spell this summer, may make things hot for Cooler's defending league and city champs.

The Commercial league also should provide a thrilling flag race for fans, Sandwich Bar managed by Ed Cheney appears as tough as any team in the league although Isaly Dairy, Co. M. and Waldo have been showing up well thus far.

In the Sunday school league, however, it's very likely to be the same old story of too much Epworth and not enough worthy competition for the Methodists of John Clark. Epworth is expected to win the championship in a breeze and the reason is this: Epworth has many older, experienced players in its lineup, whereas the other three Church loop teams have to a large degree young boys many of whom are in their first year of organized softballing. It was the same situation last season—Epworth had all the good players and won going away, not being beaten in league play until near the end of the season when St. Mary's Irish turned the trick.

ON THE SPORTING SCENE

A MARION visitor Friday was Ed Pierson of Ypsilanti, Mich., former local bowler and member of the "Evening Star" team which won the Columbus News title over 30 years ago. Ed's now managing two alleys in Ypsilanti—the Masonic Recreation Center and the newly-acquired Ypsilanti Recreation Center. Only recently, did he assume managerial duties of the Ypsilanti plant, which is right across the street from the Masonic establishment....Among the local bowling luminaries he visited here was Emerson Schoenlaub, another member of the old "Evening Star" team....Jack Houpt, Harding High school '40, has won a Navy "N" for participation in lacrosse, which may not sound as if it's a tough sport but it's every bit as rugged as softball, perhaps even more so....The first exclusively Ohio race in the Little Grand Circuit meeting was the $300 first division of the 2:4 pace at the fairgrounds Thursday night. All the horses in this event were Ohio-owned...Hugh Bell, Marion driver who last night upped his win total in the Circuit meeting to six, was training horses in Marysville and Urbana last winter...Dick Steinhauer of Lima and Newark's stocky Ned Garver seem to be the Ohio State league's most consistent and best pitchers, although Baine Smith of Middletown isn't such a slouch.. Dick Bishop, first baseman for the Zanesville Dodgers of the Ohio State loop, played shortstop for Lima Central in his high school days. He's 20 years old and 4-F in the draft.

Big 2:04 Bar Pace On Deck Tonight

Tonight's the night for the feature race of the Marion Little Grand Circuit meeting—the 2:04 bar pace, staged under the auspices of the Mutual Supply Co. for a $5,000 purse, the biggest of the local program and deemed to be one of the richest of the entire 1944 harness racing season.

Ten horses, all four years and up will compete in the race and will be driven by the usual top-grade flock of pilots who have been appearing every night at the county fairgrounds.

The bar pace, which will be the second half of the daily double, will consist of three dashes at one mile. Favored by racemen in the race are Prince Yakima to be driven by Dennis, Carty Nagle skippered by Tom Berry and My Son owned and operated in action by J. R. Rick of Newcastle, Pa.

Carty Nagle last year posted the best time for a mile of any of the starters in the bar pace. He recorded a 2 minute mark. Last season's best times of the other nine starters are My Son 2:02, Dr. Brodie 2:03, Watson E. Direct 2:04¼, Scott Volo, Jr. 2:04¼, Red Go 2:03¼, F. R. G. 2:02¼, Moon Flower 2:04¼, Prince Yakima 2:02¾, Bob Hope 2:03¼.

Already a race winner this season is My Son, F. R. G., Prince Yakima and Bob Hope have each finished second this year while Dr. Brodie and Moon Flower have both racked up a third position in active competition.

Other races on tonight's card, the biggest and best of the meeting in the mind of Frank Foster, meeting general manager, are the Ohio State Journal purse for a $300 purse and the classified trot also for a $300 prize. The State Journal purse will be for 26 class pacers.

MINNIS OF MARION HITS SAFELY IN 18 STRAIGHT CONTESTS

Ranks 4th Among Ohio State League Hitters; Senko of Middletown Still Tops.

With greasy Steve Senko of Middletown still holding the batting lead in the Ohio State league with a rip-snortin' .399 mark, and about everything else, statistically speaking, at a standstill, the league hitting spotlight beams effulgently on Virl Minnis, Marion Cub utility man, who hit safely in 18 straight games up to and including contests of last Tuesday, June 13.

Minnis didn't break into the lineup for either Wednesday or Thursday's doubleheaders with Lima so excluding last night's tilt with Newark, his batting streak is in fact. It's the longest of the Ohio State league season.

Senko, big Middletown outfielder extended his batting lead to 75 percentage points in games between June 6 and June 13. Case of Newark being in second position with .324, statistics released by the Howe News Bureau of Chicago showed today.

Minnis is the kingpin among Marion hitters with a .318 count. Up to last Tuesday, he had blasted out 42 hits for 63 total bases, cracked out three home runs and driven 29 runs across the plate. Minnis ranks fourth in batting among State league regulars. Harvey Zernia of Lima is third with .322 and Roy Eder of Zanesville third with .321.

Baine Smith, Middletown hurler, tops the lists of Ohio State circuit chuckers with seven wins and one defeat. Dick Steinhauer, Lima right hander, has a 6-1 record up to Tuesday and in the first game of a doubleheader Thursday night with Marion, made it Victory No. 7. Ned Garver, Newark mound ace has seven wins and two losses. Devine of Springfield leads in strike outs with 76 and Bob Faulkner of Springfield is runner-up with 73. Eric Schultz heads hurlers with four wins and two setbacks.

Neil Reside, Lima left fielder, still has the most "Mosts" in specialized batting in the league. He has batted in the greatest number of runs, 42, pounded out the most doubles, 11, most homers, four, compiled the greatest number of total bases, 92, scored the most runs, 43, and leads in stolen bases with 15. Senko has collected most hits, 65.

In the team columns, Lima leads in hitting with .283 and Middletown is tops in fielding with a .939 figure.

Newark's Big, Bad Moundsmen Crunch Marion Outfit, 20 to 4

Special to The Star

NEWARK, June 17—Newark unleashed an unmerciful 18-hit barrage against Marion here last night and coasted to a 20-4 victory with big Bob Jenkins being credited with his eighth win and the first over Marion.

Ostrowski started for the visitors but was lifted with three runs across, the sacks loaded and none out in the first as a result of three aces on sale, two on balsmen and a wild pitch.

Ely replaced him and retired the side without further damage but the Moundsmen teed off on him in the second then fattened their batting averages the remainder of the distance, everyone but Jenkins getting at least one safe blow. Leo Perini collected two homers, a single and two walks, scored a trio of runs himself and batted in seven. Eddie Volan had a homer and two singles and Jack Pavlecic a single, double and home run.

John Smith with a pair of doubles and Morneweg with three singles in four tries were the only Cubs able to solve Jenkins' offerings consistently. Six Marion errors and 14 Annie Oakleys, 11 off Ely, and three off Ostrowski along with four wild pitches and three hit batsmen greatly aided the Newark cause.

A summary of the game follows.

Marion Dumped Back in Last Place

Marion's 20 to 4 trampling by the Newark Moundsmen at Newark last night pushes the local Cubs once more into the Ohio State league basement, a few percentage points behind the Zanesville Dodgers, who downed the second place Middletown Red Sox, 10 to 6. Newark now paces the league by a two and a half game margin. College Trackmen in Delaware Meet

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., June 17—The cream of the state's collegiate track and field performers make their third bid of the season today for cinder path honors.

The meet, winding up the Buckeye realm's track season, is Ohio Wesleyan's revival of the All-Ohio college meet.

George Gauthier, Bishop athletic director, said eight colleges and universities would send upwards of 150 athletes to the meet, which gets under way this morning with preliminary heats in all dash events.

Several performers who were point winners last week-end in the intercollegiate championships at Milwaukee will be among the entries.

Schools which have entered teams are Ohio State, Case, Ohio Wesleyan, Oberlin, Denison, Wooster, Miami, and Bowling Green.

SUMMERS HAS SET-TO WITH IRATE PATRON

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 17—The Cleveland Indians played a ball game with the Chicago White Sox at the lakefront stadium last night and lost 3 to 1, but the contest served only as a backdrop for the star performer of the evening—Umpire Bill Summers.

The veteran arbiter stepped into the spotlight in the last half of the sixth inning when he ordered a fan removed from the stands behind home plate.

The customer, along with 14,688 other payers had been exercising their tonsils since the fifth inning, when Summers ruled that a ball driven into the left field seats by Ken Keltner was foul.

As the Indians came off the field in the sixth, the fan brandished a beer bottle threateningly at Summers, a former professional fighter. The umpire rushed to the stands, snatched the bottle from the spectator and smashed it against the stone rail.

The man in blue then notified Manager Lou Boudreau he would forfeit the game to the White Sox unless the offender was removed. The Tribe pilot persuaded the fan to leave his seat but he returned a few minutes after the play resumed.

Louisville Colonels Test Brewers Tonight

By The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Brewers, who have made plenty of hay at home, tonight face the third-place Louisville Colonels to touch off a 20-game road tour that well may play havoc with their five-game American Association lead over the runner-up Columbus Red Birds.

The league was idle yesterday, permitting a change of scenery which swings the four western clubs into action on the eastern front, but the day was a bit of an unprofitable postman's holiday for two teams.

NATS' CANDINI SNAPS BOSTON'S WIN SKEIN WITH 4 TO 0 SHUTOUT

Halts Victory String of Red Sox Nine; Leading Browns Down Bengals, 14 to 1.

By The Associated Press

Boston's nine game winning streak which had lifted the Red Sox from sixth place to within a half game of the American league lead was halted abruptly by Mike Candini, Washington's 1n and one righthander, last night.

Candini blanked the Sox 4-0 with five hits in pitching his first complete game of the season. Stan Spence drove in the first two Senator runs in the opening inning with a single to raise his league leadership to 86. George Case stole two bases to tie Dom Gutteridge for the lead in the department with 13 each. Washington's victory vaulted them into the first division, one percentage point ahead of the New York Yankees.

The league leading St. Louis Browns scored a decisive 14-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Milt Byrnes and Mark Christman each drove in three runs. Bob Muncrief won his sixth victory scattering nine Bengal hits.

The Yankees started a long home stand with a victory over the tail-end Philadelphia Athletics 6-1. A five run sixth inning enabled Hank Borowy to hang up his eighth win of the year.

Fireman Gordon Maltzberger rescued Orval Grove in the ninth when he fanned Manager Lou Boudreau with the bases full and two out, to give the Chicago White Sox a 3-1 win over the Cleveland Indians.

Brooklyn took a close game from the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4, with the aid of a four-run outburst in the sixth inning. Dixie Walker paced the Dodger attack with two doubles and drove in two runs. Rube Melton won his fourth game, though he needed help from Les Webber in the ninth.

The Cincinnati Reds clubbed four Chicago pitchers for 13 hits including homers by Frank McCormick and Eric Tipton, to defeat the Cubs, 10-5.

The Giants, Braves, Cards and Pirates were not scheduled.

Stable Hand, 32 Horses Perish in Detroit Fire

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 17—A 56-year-old stable hand was burned to death early today in a three-alarm fire that destroyed 32 valuable race horses in two barns at the Michigan state fair grounds.

The stable hand, David Scott lived at the track. A groom named Scott apparently was asleep in his quarters when the blaze began.

Among the horses that perished was Bell Buzzer, which ran seventh in this year's Kentucky Derby. The three-year-old was owned by David Ferguson of Detroit.

Other owners of the approximately 100 horses stabled in the two barns include L. G. Bedwell of Los Angeles, N. T. Mayo of Richmond, Va., and Otto B. Jolly of Detroit.

Lefty Carter on Mound Today for Cincy Reds

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 17—Lefty Carter takes the mound today for the Cincinnati Reds in the second game of a four-game set with the Chicago Cubs. Claude Passeau is the opposition.

In a free-hitting game before a ladies' day crowd the Reds yesterday staged a rally in the closing innings to win 10 to 5 after being behind 5 to 2.

Big Frank McCormick banged out his fourth homer of the season with two mates on the bases in the seventh and on the next pitch Eric Tipton also hit a round-tripper.

Army Called To Guard Golf Tourney Players

By The Associated Press

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 17—The marshals were really martial today at Wykagyl's tricky course, for they called out the Army to guard the golfers from the galloping galleries on the last two 18-hole rounds of the $13,333 Red Cross tournament.

With the concluding jaunts of the 72-hole nip-and-tuck medal play test scheduled today and Sunday, 90 soldiers moved in last night, pitched their tents, ate a field-prepared macaroni meal and prepared to stem the stampeding spectators over the uphill and down-dale course.

Film Portrays Story of West

"My Friend Flicka" Part of Double Feature at Marion Theater.

"My Friend Flicka" starring Roddy McDowall, Preston Foster and Rita Johnson, and "Black Parachute," with John Carradine, will start at the Marion theater with a midnight show Saturday and continue through Monday.

The first picture on this double bill captures the spirit of today's West, the deep and tender love of its women and the courage of its rugged men. Bind these three facts together in technicolor, sprinkle generously with a boy's unrivaled love for a horse and you have the theme of "My Friend Flicka."

"Black Parachute" presents a story about the guerrilla fighting against the Nazi conquerors in the Balkans.

"Jamboree" and "They Came to Blow up America" are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Top radio hillbilly stars and bands are featured and the musical comedy "Jamboree" starring Ruth Terry and George Byron.

"Salute to the Marines," starring Wallace Beery, Fay Bainter and Reginald Owen will play Thursday through Saturday.

In this, Beery's first technicolor films, he is cast as a sergeant major who retires from the corps after 30 years active service. Together with his wife, Fay Bainter and daughter, Marilyn Maxwell, he goes to live in a peace colony in the Philippines.

DINAH SHORE AND DANNY KAYE are seen in "Up in Arms" showing at the Palace theater Sunday through Wednesday.

Danny Kaye, Dinah Shore In "Up in Arms" at the Palace

Fanciful Comedy To Be Followed by "The Heavenly Body," Starring Hedy Lamarr, Later in Week.

"Up in Arms," starring Danny Kaye, Dinah Shore, Dana Andrews and Constance Dowling, will be shown at the Palace theater Sunday through Wednesday.

Filmed in technicolor, "Up in Arms," is a rollicking tale of a hypochondriac elevator operator, played by Danny Kaye, who thinks he has every ailment in the dictionary. He is constantly prescribing for himself for everyone he meets, including his buddy and their two girl friends, played by Dana Andrews, Dinah Shore and Constance Dowling. Danny and Dana are drafted into the Army. When they complete their basic training they find their nurse girl friends have joined the Army too and are now lieutenants in the Medical Corps. All four of them head for the South Seas aboard the same transport, although Mary is a stowaway, thanks to Danny's maneuvering. Danny's peculiarities keep him in hot water with the officers and men.

Picturesque Dream

In a friendly tussel with his buddies, Danny is knocked cold. He dreams that he is in a drug store about the size of the Pasadena Rose Bowl where sodas with multiple scoops of rainbow ice cream are served in small wash tubs. Then follows a fanciful wedding procession of flower girls, beautiful bridesmaids and pastel goats. The scene changes to a jungle of delicately designed trees which turn out to be beautiful Goldwyn girls.

Danny's troubles land him in the guardhouse and lead to his capture by a troop of Jap raiders. He escapes to find himself a hero.

"The Heavenly Body," starring Hedy Lamarr, William Powell, James Craig and Fay Bainter, will be shown Thursday through Saturday. It is a merry tale of the difficulties that beset a professor of astronomy when his wife decides to dabble with astrology. Hedy Lamarr, lonely because Powell must work nights gathering data on a new comet he has discovered, becomes friendly with her neighbor who takes her to an astrologer, played by Fay Bainter. Fay casts Hedy's horoscope and Bill's troubles begin.

Air Raid Warden Trouble

When Fay predicts Hedy will meet "the true love of her life" during a certain period Hedy is convinced she must divorce Powell and prepare to marry the coming stranger. Just before the deadline Air Raid Warden James Craig asks Hedy to put out her light. He fits the specifications and Hedy decides he is her man. Complications arise when Craig decides he is not at all averse to having Hedy for his wife, and Powell's efforts to save his marriage become desperate. But everything he does is wrong. It takes Hedy a long time to realize her heart knows better than her horoscope.

Market Tops Up Busy Week with Further Rise in Prices.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 17—The stock market today topped off a buoyant week with a further rise of fractions to around a point in a long list of key industrial and rail shares.

Volume continued heavy. There were many large block transfers in low priced issues and a fair number in the pivotals. For the two hours dealings totaled about 800,000 shares.

Today's advance carried prices on average to the highest levels since late 1937.

Joining in the rise were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Harvester, Westinghouse and American Telephone.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I WONDERED if Hugh could see the expression in the eyes of Junior and Roderick as he told me that he wished me to come back to the secret room as soon as I had found out about the ringing of the gong downstairs.

They looked exactly like eager puppies, speculating if they were to be given a bone. And then, relievedly, I knew Hugh had understood, as he said with apparent casualness:

"You two boys had better come back too. We probably won't keep you long. Tell Jim not to go to bed until you go back downstairs again."

"Okay!" Junior agreed. "We'll tell him. Ready, Mums?"

Deferential Tone

His tone was deferential, but his eyes and Roderick's demanded haste, and I moved toward the door as I answered them.

"All ready," I said. "Come along!"

"We've both got flashlights," Junior said, when Hugh had closed the door after us, first slipping on the switch which lighted the winding stairway. "Rod, you'd better go up ahead of Mums, and I'll come right behind her."

He put a possessive, protecting hand under my elbow, and while the whole performance made me feel about eighty-five, and already measured for a casket, I felt no resentment, but rather a rush of fatuous pride.

They restrained their haste until we had traversed the dark attic by flashlight. But when we finally had come into the light of the second floor corridor, they ranged themselves on either side of me and rushed me down the hall as if Mephistopheles, himself, in full regalia, were pursuing us.

Halts Them

But in front of the nursery door, I pulled them to a halt, and took over the reins of authority.

"Wait here, just a minute," I said. "I don't want to take the risk of waking Faith, if she isn't already aroused by the gong. But I must see Granzie for a minute."

"But you will hurry, won't you?" Junior begged, adding a bit importantly: "I imagine Uncle Hugh will want to get those fellows out of there as fast as he can, and he'll probably want us back there before they go."

I doubted the truth of his second premise, but there was only acquiescence in my voice as I answered him.

"I'll be right out," I told him, but when the nursery door closed behind me, I stretched my promise backward as my mother-in-law came eagerly to meet me. I could not delay gratifying her melodrama-loving soul with the latest news from the secret chamber. It would do the boys no harm to cool their heels for a minute or two, I reflected heartlessly.

Asks Questions

"Did you hear the gong?" I asked hurriedly. "And did Faith waken?"

"'Yes,' to the first question," she answered, "nine separate peals, three at a time, just as you said. They were clear but not too loud. And 'no' to your second query. Faith never stirred, and she is still asleep."

"Let us thank 'whatever gods there be' for that. And now, I must tell you the latest chapter in this melodrama."

As quickly as possible, I told her of the startling arrival at the secret chamber of "Mr. X," Charlie Kent and Jerry Tiger, and that Hugh wanted me to return as soon as I had tested the ringing of the gong.

"The boys are going back with me," I said, 'so I am afraid—"

"Don't finish such a silly sentence," she said. "Of course I'll stay right here until you come back. Or, I have an alternative. You'll have to get ready for tomorrow in your own room, not in here. Why can't I sleep in here—the bed's all ready, as you see?"

Capitulation

I capitulated swiftly, without even a protest that the bed was not as comfortable as her own. I knew that she was unconsciously longing for hardships, in order to prove that despite her age and infirmity, she still could feel some slight kinship to the men fighting so desperately for her and all the other mothers in this land.

"Why, of course, Mother. That's the only solution of the problem. And you can get to sleep right away."

She gave me an unmistakably scornful look.

"I'll 'disrobe and retire,' then, as my boarding school teacher used to tell me I must say," she said, "but if you think I'm going to go to sleep until I hear what those men have to tell Hugh Grantland—well, Junior's is the only appropriate phrasing—'you have another think coming'."

YOUR HEALTH

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Father's Day

I AM reminded by the National Committee that tomorrow is Father's Day and it is suggested that since lately Father has been under some strain from war news, taxes, shortages, community needs, etc., a few simple hints about how he should keep his health will be in order. "You might," suggests the Committee "stress the benefits of good posture, what not to eat, the benefits of hot and cold baths, and how to stand and walk."

The heck I will! I'd like to give Father a healthy day all right, so what I suggest is this:

Do not take his blood pressure all day long.

Do not remark that after all, we dig our graves with our teeth.

Do not give him a box of vitamin tablets, but give him a box of cigars and a box at the ball game and tell him to go out there with his pals and slop his posture all over the seat, and stand up and sit down any way he darn pleases.

What this world needs is to free Father of fear. Fear couched in the creakings of dietetic-vitaministic preachments of pseudo-scientists, fear of postwar messes as if a new generation could not work out at least some of its own destiny, fear of capital, labor, communism and heaven knows—fear of ourselves. We seem to be going back to a new Middle Age.

In that dark day man stood under the brooding and omnipresent fear of Hell. Have we liberated ourselves only to stand under the equally grim and unrelenting fear of Man? Modern man, who like Prometheus has stolen the fire from heaven; an Icarus who has stolen the wings from the birds; a Hercules who has piled our tables with the apples of the Hesperides; a Puck who has put a girdle round the earth in forty minutes?

I remember my own Father as one who was not too much impressed by warnings.

When I bought my first sphygmomanometers he was the only victim I had and he complacently allowed me to take his blood pressure. But when I started to tell him the results he refused to listen and informed me cooly that no machine was going to tell him how long he was going to live. A man he said, has the God-given right to tell the truth or not as he chooses but a machine volunteers the truth. Anyway, he said, he didn't want to know when his number was about to be up. Bishop Atwill had told him that making an angel of him was just like releasing one more fly into Grogan's saloon.

He was regular, he said, in all things—he was an allopath in medicine, an Episcopalian in religion and a Republican in politics. This was a reflection of his deep-grained trust in the majority. Nature, he avered, was on the side of the majority.

He was not an educated man in a wide sense, but he did not have either the awe or the contempt that one kind or other of uneducated man has for the scientist. He knew that some scientists were wise and some were fools. When a scientist told him that meat was bad for his kidneys he reserved judgment until he found out whether Mrs. Jones next door was in the habit of serving it to her family.

In spite of the fact that he never heard of vitamins, never would allow his blood pressure to be taken after that first time, ate whatever was put before him, hated cathartics, took a modicum of exercise, never took a cold shower in his life, had flat feet, a hernia and a bad posture, he lived to be nearly eight years old, and died one Sunday morning from rolling over in bed.

My father carried out the prime function of parenthood. He was engaged in the great task of cheering us all up.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

F. C.—What are the causes of spots before the eyes?

Answer: "Spots before the eyes" usually are shadows of white blood particles moving in the interior of the eyes to feed the tissues. Ordinarily the movement of these blood particles is not noticed, but when the eyes are tired or strained, says the Better Vision Institute, the visual nerves are so jumpy that they see the shadows which healthy eyes do not notice.

Invasion Weapons

155 mm Howitzer

Associated Press Features

The 155 mm howitzer, which proved itself in Africa, Sicily and Italy, is a short barreled weapon, firing a 95-pound high explosive or chemical projectile at a rate of three per minute. Its effective range is ten miles.

Its relatively moderate weight, six tons, makes it easy to maneuver.

Fired from a three-point support, it can be set up in five minutes. The wheels are raised off the ground and the folding carriage is supported on a jack. An 11-man crew operates it.

In the triangular division, one battalion of 155 mm howitzers reinforces the fire of infantry cannon companies and light (105 mm howitzer) field artillery batteries. There are 12 guns in a battalion, distributed among three firing batteries.
